

R. Allen Bolar
POLI 101 Midterm Review
Midterm is July 7th, in class

I expect your midterm to take about an hour, but I'll give you 85 minutes. It will consist of multiple choice, matching, identifications, and short answer. Here are some terms to help you start your studying. Happy Studying! --Allen substantive justice	Friedrich Engels procedural justice	Manchester due process	Karl Marx

externality	Marx's conflict theory progressive taxation	proletariat central bank	false consciousness gross domestic product	markets
public good	politics
nation	common pool resource state	prisoner's dilemma sovereignty	tyranny
nation-state
civil society
liberalism
conservatism
socialism
power
authority
legitimacy
Thomas Hobbes
The Leviathan
John Locke
natural law
"life, liberty, and property" state of nature
social contract
John Stuart Mill
Harm Principle
paternalism Mill's arguments for free speech mercantilism
Adam Smith
laissez faire
the price system
comparative advantage
monopoly
bourgeois
Edmund Burke
Burke's argument for conservatism	