

R. Allen Bolar
POLI 140 Midterm Review
Midterm is April 11th, in class

I expect your midterm to take about an hour, but I'll give you the entire class period of 85 minutes. It will consist of multiple choice, matching, identifications, and short answer. I don't think that there will be an essay. Here are some terms to help you start your studying. I am going to work on this list as the week goes by, so stop back to check on it. I won't be taking anything off it, and if I add anything, I'll bold it. Happy Studying! --Allen

Normative theory	Prisoner's dilemma
Westphalian system	Collective action problem
Treaty of Westphalia	Security dilemma
Peloponnesian war	The role of power in the realist paradigm
Thucydides	Hegemonic stability theory
State	Democratic peace theory
Sovereignty	Liberal institutionalism
Anarchy	Institutions
Pluralism	The SALT treaties
Balance of power	Transnational actors
European colonialism	Economic structuralism
Napoleon	Bourgeoisie
Nationalism	Surplus value
Self-determination	Constructivism
Concert of Europe	Interests
Causes of the First World War	Identity
Imperialism	Apartheid
Triple Alliance	"clash of civilizations"
Triple Entente	Norms
Treaty of Versailles	Gendered ideas
League of Nations	Rational choice theory
John Maynard Keynes	The role of public opinion
Friedrich Hayek	mainstreaming
Collective security	the role of the media
Isolationism	pentagon papers
Appeasement	expected utility theory
Nongovernmental organization	bounded rationality
Multinational corporation	lesson of Munich
Cold War	IGOs
Paradigm	European Union
Realism	United Nations
Thomas Hobbes	The Security Council
States as rational actors	Women of Liberia Mass Action for Peace